DETAILED OFFICE ACTION

Abstract

Applicant is reminded of the proper content of an Abstract of the Disclosure.

In chemical patent abstracts for compounds or compositions, the general nature of the compound or composition should be given as well as its use, e.g., "The compounds are of the class of alkyl benzene sulfonyl ureas, useful as oral anti-diabetics." Exemplification of a species could be illustrative of members of the class. For processes, the type reaction, reagents and process conditions should be stated, generally illustrated by a single example unless variations are necessary. The Abstract at present is too vague to be of value to future researchers

Complete revision of the content of the abstract is required on a separate sheet.

Rejections Under 35 USC 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(a) the invention was known or used by others in this country, or patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country, before the invention thereof by the applicant for a patent.

Claims 1-20 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) over Canadian 2,306,502, to Nowotny, et al., published 10/30/00. Claim 1, step b) requires that the process takes place "without initially treating the resulting ribo-flavin solution in mineral acid with activated carbon." Nowotny clearly teaches (page 2, lines 11-23) "dissolution takes place by a protonation reaction ... [which] usually takes up to about 30 minutes depending on the temperature and intermixing." This dissolution of Nowotny takes place before the active charcoal is added. Claim 1 does not totally prohibit the addition of activated charcoal, but simply requires that the process take place "without initially treating the resulting ribo-flavin solution in mineral acid with activated carbon."

Nowotny teaches all other claimed reaction parameters. The temperature is usually about 5° to about 25° C, the mineral acid may be hydrochloric or nitric acid, and dissolution takes up to about 30 min (page 2, inter alia). Precipitation may be carried out continuously (page 7, inter alia). The riboflavin may be dried by fluidized bed spray (page 5, inter alia). Precipitation may also be carried out in a two-stage system with about 2-4 min average residence time in the first tank and temperature of about 10° C (page 7, inter alia). The drying gas temperature can be about 150° C to about 240° C (page 5, inter alia). A portion of riboflavin can recycle back to the drying process (4, inter alia). Accordingly, Nowotny anticipates the terms of the claims.
